Contention between FENTON and CUSHING.

FENTON and CUSHING have done a fine job against overwhelming odds. They are entitled to encouragement - - and help when we can get it to them. But the situation, on the other hand, is somewhat delicate. In the first place, the joint command appears to be splitting up and yet the situation does not permit the recognition of either one over the other. We may be able to heal the rift. Certainly, as they are stronger united than they would be fighting each other for control, we should endeavor to do so. In the second place, there is evidence that under their command martial law has been rigidly enforced and numerous civilians executed for pro-Jap activities including persons of prominence, such as members of OSMENA's family. Situation thus suggests action guided by caution. On the other hand, the people of CEBU have and are putting up a magnificent resistance to heavy enemy pressure to pacify them. They deserve recognition for this.

In re identification enemy units.

PERALTA's 505 reported departure 10,000 enemy troops from BICOL toward MANILA early June.

PERALTA's 662 refers to Jap military note brought in by agents bearing the words "De Japanche Regearing" and "tien cent" which translated means "The Japanese Government" and "ten cents". Examination of records and enemy military notes of the N.E. Section, A.I.B., discloses that the note in reference was undoubtedly one of those prepared by the enemy for use in the Dutch East Indies. While it might support other evidence that the holder had come from the Dutch East Indies, by itself it would constitute evidence of very weak probative value.

For information of G-2 - - A.I.B. has full set of such notes.
