"Part 4. Owing to the fluid tactical situation firm tgt dates for delivery of this equipment cannot be established. It is requested that, as equipment becomes avail for shmt to Korea that shipping instr be obtained from this hqs prior to mvmt.

"Part 5. Developments since submission of rmts on 27 Jul 50 (our msg cite 20584) have necessitated certain upward adjustments and have also made these rmts more urgent in view of proc and pipeline time anticipated. In justification of the above rmts consideration has been give to:

- (A). Planned buildup of UN Forces in South Korea.
- (B). Mvmt all classes of supplies for civ population.
- (C). All characteristics of the main rail line with mileages from Pusan to Seoul of 273 miles, Seoul to Incheon 19 miles, Seoul to Kassaong of 45 miles as well as all branch lines.
- (D). Opening of additional ports.
- (E). Readjustment of population.
- (F). Evac of salvage.
- (G). Opn of KKR including shop facilities.
- (H). Military contingencies.
- (I). Probability of a large if not a major part of supply and replacement effort being handled over longer rail haul from Pusan because of that ports superior transition facilities.
- (J). Criteria laid down in FM 101-10 compensated for by local conditions.

This equip is considered min suf to meet all demands within the foreseeable future. However, too much emphasis cannot be placed on the need for commencing proc action at once so that deliveries expected can reasonably meet the increasing demands as they develop. Rost that 5 diesel elec locomotives be shipped soonest.

Ref part 2, your msg CX 61331, dtd 270857 Z. This msg in 2 parts.

Part 1. Request reconsideration for fol reasons:

A. Although the same vessels ply the resupply shuttle, the sequence of arrival at Yoko is not the same. The variance in type and carrying capacity of the ~~vessels~~ vessels precludes the possibility of accurately determining what constitutes a shipload until the vessel arrives at Yoko.

B. The availability of a shipload is difficult to determine for reasons stated in para A, above. Further, the immediate requirement for a particular type of material or equipment causes frequent changes in loading lists, resulting in weight changes and/or cube that permits fluctuations in cargo to be stowed aboard.

C. The type of cargo to be loaded in a given shipload is an intangible for reasons stated in para B, above.

Part 2. The present system of handling resupply is functioning satisfactorily. It has been seldom that a vessel awaited loading, or that a vessel was not available for a load. In view of the above it is recommended that present system remain in effect.

URMSG SUP-0-347. The activation of units in Japan and Korea plus resupply of these units fighting in Korea has placed such heavy demands for vehicles on JLCOM's shops that production capacity has been unable to absorb the total load with the time required. It was understood GHQ had requested that units arriving from the ZI be equipped with authorized vehicles.

In anticipation of the AF demands to expand Japan units from peace str, this Hq on the 19th Jul 1950 submitted on the ZI requisitions FQ 386 for 900 vehicles to be used to fill AF shortages. To date no indication has been given by Wright Field upon the availability or shipment of these vehicles. Current records of this Hq, indicated that from 25 June 1950, 1049 vehicles have been furnished AF by JLCOM's shops.

Requisitions referred to in referenced message have been placed in a supply priority category to follow the re-equipping of the 7th Division, resupply to units in Korea and equipping of special GHQ projects. In many instances it is not anticipated that vehicles on these requisitions will be supplied until receipt of those vehicles requisitioned from ZI for AF. AF units in priority equivalent to those mentioned above are being issued their proportionate share of available vehicles.
