122. Q. What are the symptoms of fracture of the rib?
A. The symptoms of the rib are severe pain in breathing, tenderness over the suspected fracture, and inability to take a long breath because of the pain produced. (P. 111.)
123. Q. How would you treat and dress fracture of the rib? (Fig. 49, P. 114.)
A. (Each member of class demonstrates.)
124. Q. What are the symptoms of fracture of the spine or broken back?
A. The patient may be paralyzed from the wrist down and will be unable to move his legs. Deformity may be present at the point where the spine has been fractured. (P. 113.)
125. Q. If the patient's back is bent at the point of fracture, what would be the procedure?
A. Do not try to straighten patient if his back is bent. Treat for shock, and send for the doctor. (P. 113.)
126. Q. What is the procedure for dressing a fracture of the spine if the patient is in a straight position? (Fig. 50, pp. 113, 117.)
A. (Each member of class demonstrates.)
127. Q. What are the symptoms of fracture of the pelvis?
A. The patient complains of severe pain through the pelvis. (P. 116.)
128. Q. How would you dress and treat the following fractures?
